

MISSING BOY IS FOUND BY THE EVENING WORLD

Elmer Maxson, Who Disappeared from His Home in Monmouth, N. J., Located in the Hudson Hotel This City.

Elmer Maxson, the Monmouth (N. J.) boy who has been missing from his home since April 22, was found by an Evening World reporter today in the Hudson Hotel, No. 114 Hudson street.

"This boy's sister was wife to the Evening World," said a person who made for her missing brother. "The girl explained in her letter that the boy's mother had grown melancholy over her son's absence and that it was feared that he had been murdered."

The reporter found young Maxson in room No. 303 in the hotel, where today, John Maxwell, the clerk, said that the boy had been stopping at the hotel since April 22.

"He left word to be called at 2 o'clock," explained the clerk. "You might go up and call him now."

After a hard pounding at the door a voice on the inside called out:

"All right."

The door was opened and a sleepy boy admitted that he was Elmer Maxson.

"Sure I'm here," he began. "Then he proceeded to slip into his clothes. While he dressed he talked of himself, of his experiences and of his ambitions."

"I simply got tired of being the farm boy all the time," he said. "There was nothing but plowing in the day light, weather permitting, milking cows before dawn and after dark, and fixing fences when the sun was hot."

"But I don't mean to be a grinder always. I'm going to do something big and."

At this juncture a detective came in from the Charles street station, and the ambitious country boy was taken away to the station house. Never once did he lose his grip. His only worry was that he would be late to work. The boy's parents back in Monmouth were notified that he was safe.

PULLED HIS HAIR, HE WANTS DIVORCE.

Culmination of Tooth-Puller's Seashore Romance Is Plea of Husband.

(Special to The Evening World.)

READING, Pa., May 2.—Dr. Joseph J. Johnson, a dentist, yesterday applied for a divorce from Emma R. Johnson. The petition for divorce is said to be the culmination of a romance at Asbury Park. It was written on a visit to that resort that the young dentist is alleged to have met a supposed wealthy widow some years his senior. They were married July 5, 1933.

After the marriage, the husband says, they resided in New York, then came to Reading. On Oct. 5, he says, he was compelled to leave his wife because of many indignities which she heaped upon him.

On numerous occasions, he declares, she treated him most cruelly by pulling his hair.

Key to Russia's Secret.

"Troizmondoff" is a word that may not be breathed in Russia. Yet it is spoken often and with thrilling results in "A Rock in the Baltic," Robert Barr's newest, finest novel, which begins in the Sunday World next Sunday.

LONGWORTHS AT MUSIC FESTIVAL.

CINCINNATI, May 2.—The annual May music festival, now under way, enjoyed a most successful opening. Representative and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Gen. and Mrs. Corbin and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Taft are among the prominent Eastern visitors who attended the opening concert. Sir Edward and Lady Elgar did not attend because of the death of Lady Elgar's father. Sir Edward will conduct two of his oratorios during the week.

Last night's concert was a memorial for Theodore Thomas, one of the founders of the festival. His widow was present. The concert was a striking artistic success under Franz Van der Stucken's leadership.
